

Vivienne Westwood

RED LABEL

Autumn- Winter 2014/15

Red Label clothes give a picture, an impression of a woman who is born in the privileged world, she is warm and looked after. She feels important; she's engaged with the world and cares about it ('Don't Frack my Mother', Yoko Ono and Sean Lennon); she's artistic and adventurous.

The first look alone would say everything – the voluminous swagger of the coat: underneath – a silky frilled shirt and velvet skirt. She looks like someone who's going somewhere.

Please join us at the Frack Future Carnival Rally on Wednesday 19th March 12.30pm meeting point Knightsbridge tube station.
